Bill:	CAAB68 - School safety: armed school resource officers.
Comment:	Beginning in the 2028–29 school year, this bill would have mandated armed school resource officers at qualifying rural schools, allowed limited compliance exceptions, and treated the requirement as a reimbursable state mandate. Bill:	CAAB256 - Crimes: intoxication and firearms.
Comment:	This bill would have created a new criminal sentencing enhancement for individuals under the influence of prohibited controlled substances while armed during the commission or attempted commission of a felony, and expanded the grounds for issuing search warrants based on blood sample evidence. The bill failed to pass the Assembly Public Safety Committee on 1/13/2026.

Bill:	CAAB1589 - Firearms: silencers.
Comment:	This bill will expand existing exceptions to California's silencer prohibition by allowing Level I reserve peace officers to possess silencers under the same conditions as full-time peace officers, and clarify that registered dealers and manufacturers may possess, transport, and sell silencers to authorized entities. The bill has been introduced.

Bill:	CAAB1615 - Firearms: unsafe handguns.
Comment:	This bill would allow sworn county probation officers to use “unsafe handguns” as service weapons, subject to POST training and a requirement to qualify with the firearm at least every three months, and would update and clarify related law-enforcement exemptions and reporting requirements. The bill has been introduced.

 Bill:	CAAB1701 - Recall and resentencing: school shootings.
Comment:	AB 1701 limits California’s juvenile resentencing law by preventing those convicted of school shootings from later seeking sentence reductions. While the bill is narrow and largely symbolic, it moves in the right direction by prioritizing accountability and sparing victims’ families from repeated resentencing hearings. In a Legislature unwilling to enact meaningful criminal penalty reform, AB 1701 represents a modest but appropriate step toward restoring some balance in a system that too often favors early release over public safety.

 Bill:	CAAB1743 - Firearms.
Comment:	AB 1743 expands state surveillance of firearms, gun dealers, and ammunition vendors by requiring the Department of Justice to share detailed gun-trace and inspection data with local governments and public universities for “policy research.” While it does not impose new restrictions today, the bill is designed to generate studies and reports that single out lawful dealers and businesses as sources of crime, laying the groundwork for future regulations, licensing crackdowns, and liability schemes. In short, AB 1743 is a setup bill that treats legal gun commerce as a problem to be managed out of existence rather than a constitutionally protected activity.

 Bill:	CAAB1753 - Protective orders: firearms and ammunition.
Comment:	AB 1753 expands California’s civil restraining order laws to automatically ban firearm and ammunition possession—often without a criminal charge or conviction. It applies these bans to broad categories like civil harassment, workplace disputes, and campus orders, some of which can be issued before the accused has a full hearing. The bill lowers due process protections, increases the risk of mistaken confiscation, and turns technical violations into serious criminal penalties for otherwise law-abiding gun owners.

Bill:	CASB948 - Firearms: safety certificates.
Comment:	SB 948 expands California's Firearm Safety Certificate (FSC) requirements by imposing new criminal penalties and significantly increasing the burden to obtain an FSC. The bill requires personal firearm importers to obtain and submit a valid FSC when reporting firearms brought into the state, creating a new crime for noncompliance. Beginning July 1, 2028, the bill further transforms the FSC into a mandatory training requirement by requiring applicants to complete at least eight hours of DOJ-regulated instruction, including live-fire training. This effectively converts the FSC from a simple safety test into a licensing-style prerequisite for firearm ownership.
